

I can Pray

I may never sing a song that brings people to their feet.
And mighty men of world renown I may never get to meet.
But I have an invitation to hasten to His throne, to lay my burdens at His feet and make my petitions known

I can pray. Though the storm around me rages,
I can trust the Rock of ages when I pray.
And the peace I can't explain when I call upon His name;
I just know I'm not the same when I pray

When it seems the road I'm trav'ling on just doesn't have an end,
I have found that He will be my brother and my friend.
For He never will forsake me; He will always hear my plea,
Because He stands beside the Father, interceding just for me.

I can pray. Though the storm around me rages,
I can trust the Rock of ages when I pray.
And the peace I can't explain when I call upon His name;
I just know I'm not the same when I pray

If my people
who are called by my name
will humble themselves,
will humble themselves and pray,

I can pray. Though the storm around me rages,
I can trust the Rock of ages when I pray.
And the peace I can't explain when I call upon His name,
I just know I'm not the same when I pray, when I pray, when I pray
