Joseph (rap): Take a look at the jacket, I'm the "Rainbow Kid". You should be of, Dad, but I'm glad you did. Papa loves me more than the others. I can hardly wait to show it to my ten big brothers.

Joseph: It's me, big brothers, "Little Joe". Take a break from the labor, let me tell you what I know. Give a listen to the vision that I had in my sleep. When I'm dreamin' dreams you're countin' sheep. It was the middle of the day or thereabout, we were cuttin' the hay, we were balin' it out. And when the ten haybales had all been bound, my stack stood up... and yours kissed the ground.

All brothers: Say what?
Judah: Now get this straight! Your head could stand to lose some weight!
Joseph: But that ain't all, dream number two had Mom and Dad along with you. This one was in a different place. I was on a little walk in outer space and eleven stars and the moon and the sun all bowed down low to the color-coated one.
Levi: Oh wow, this boy's askin' for it now...

Benjamin: Climb Jacob's ladder to the family tree, and you'll find alot of sibling rivalry, 'cause Joey's dream caused quite a stir and things at home were gettin' warm. So my ten big brothers went south a ways to give the sheep a better graze. Daddy told Joe, "Go see your brothers in the south." But he should've made a puzzle for Joseph's mouth...

Issachar: Hey, I should know, here comes that dreamboy, Little Joe.
Judah: He's such a dear, let's entertain him while he's here.
Dan: Let's play hide and seek.
Naphtali: Yeah, and hide him for a about a week! (All brothers "Yuk it up!")
Rueben: How about show and tell? We'll show him down a wishin' well!

Gad and Asher: But first we'll take his colored coat and wrap it 'round his little throat.
Simeon: Have I got a plan that's qualified to make us money on the side. Let's rip and tear his coat in mud and splatter it with a little goat blood. We'll say to Dad, "We've got a hunch..."
Levi (low voice): "...that Little Joe was lion lunch!"

Gad and Asher: Oh, Joey, over here, yoo-hoo! We've got a big surprise for you!
Zebulun: See that exotic caravan?
All Brothers: You're goin' south to get a tan!
Simeon: We've made a deal and you're the guy.
Dan and Naphtali: Be sure and tell the Pharaoh, "Hi!"
Levi (low voice): It's not as nasty as it seems...

Gad and Asher: Get lots of sleep...
All Brothers: And pleasant dreams!
